Why become a member at RLF?

If you think you belong to RLF then you belong, and if you think you belong then you will have a say in this community. If you want to formalize your relationship then you can become a member by completing this document. Each year Real Life members are asked to renew their commitment to church membership. As church members we take on responsibility for what Real Life Fellowship is and what Real Life Fellowship does.

To become a member is to enter into a formal relationship of accountability with the RLF community. In this relationship we are not only responsible for our own actions, we are also accountable for the actions of others. This requires a new level of honesty and authenticity, not simply an internal honesty but, a greater level of outward honesty.

For us, membership is not a way to belong. It is, rather, a step of commitment to our community that one can take which allows them to be held accountable by the church more formally, and to hold us to account as well. Membership is not about belonging at all, but about commitment, and all are invited to become members when they are comfortable doing so. All are also welcome to refrain from membership for as long as they wish.
